The Joy of Evangelization

“The Holy Spirit gives life to the Church, who guides her steps. Without the Spirit, the Church could not live and could not carry out the task that the Risen Jesus entrusted to her: to go and make disciples of all nations (cf. Mt 28:19). Evangelizing is the Church’s mission. It is not the mission of only a few, but it is mine, yours and our mission.” 〜 Pope Francis

That’s evangelization, our mission! Jesus simply asks us “to go and make disciples of all nations”. Easier said than done! Most of us are reluctant to speak of “church”, outside of the actual building, for a couple of reasons. One, our culture (and perhaps even we) frown on those who speak of Jesus or church in the secular world. Two, we are afraid that we do not know enough about our faith or how to articulate it to others.

To assist us in accepting the mission of evangelization, and to help in conquering the first fear, Jesus gave us the Holy Spirit to actually dwell within us. The Spirit can lead us to realize that sharing our faith is a way to truly care about others, and their spiritual wellbeing. Embracing the gift of the Holy Spirit, we find the courage to speak of Jesus and share our faith in the secular world. The Holy Spirit will give us the courage and the words to bring our faith alive to others. Pope Francis says, “To evangelize it is necessary to open ourselves to the horizon of God’s Spirit, without being afraid of where he leads us”.

To assist us in this life-long faith formation we are providing dynamic, convincing, and convenient presentations of the Catholic faith. In the narthex there are cds available as a resource to help us in the mission given to us by Jesus. These resources are professionally recorded presentations by the world’s best Catholic speakers such as Matthew Kelly, Scott Hahn and Reverend Robert Baron.

Many of us have already taken advantage of these and enjoyed them. Now we have new selections that many of us may not have heard before such as “Our Lady of Good Success”, “The Jesus Question”, “7 Pillars of Catholic Spirituality”, “The Jesuits, the Church and the Papacy” to name a few.

We hope that you will check out the cds. They can fan the flame of our own faith. They can also help all of us fulfill the task that was entrusted to us by the Risen Jesus … go make disciples! Peace, Cris Wensel, Pastoral Associate

Emerging Churches
Next weekend, July 5/6, we will take up the Collection for the Church in Central and Eastern Europe. This Collection supports Catholic organizations that provide affordable shelter and training for seminarians in a region that still struggles with the effects of Soviet rule. By providing pastoral care, catechesis, and funding for building renovations, your donations help to restore the Church and build the future in the region. Please give generously to the Collection next week. Visit www.usccb.org (search “Church in Central and Eastern Europe”) to learn more.

Watch for details!
Making the Connections

Through the research he conducted to write his Gospel, Luke knew well how God had worked mightily in the earthly ministry of Jesus. He also knew, and experienced 1st hand how that same power continued to be at work in Jesus’ disciples. One way he conveys that awareness to us is through his excellent writing skills, and his ability to shape a narrative. As he told the story of the stoning of Stephen, the vocabulary and details Luke offers leave little doubt – as the master, so the disciple. Both had a wisdom none could contradict. Like Jesus’ passion, Stephen’s death was preceded by open confrontation, false allegations of blasphemy, enemies agitating the people, arrest, going before the Council. Both forgave as they were being murdered.

The account of Peter’s escape is shaped more in line with Jesus’ resurrection. Divine intervention, breaking through the power of death (or the chains); an angel at the tomb, an angel in the prison; after the resurrection, and after the escape, questions about ‘is it really him?’ Imagine how these parallels gave hope to the next generation: as disciples, you too may suffer like the master, but you will be delivered! What things in scripture give you hope and courage?

Peace at the Last

In the course of his letters, St. Paul details all kinds of hardships he has faced. Preaching the Gospel, guiding the churches he established demanded his all, and put him in all kinds of danger. Yet listening to our second reading, we hear the voice of someone at peace. He can look back over his life with confidence. He gave his best. The Lord was with him through it all. It is as if he can already hear the Lord saying to him “well done, good and faithful servant.” And the phrase, ‘being poured out like a libation’? Often in the Temple, a sacrifice concluded with a ‘libation’, or ‘drink offering’; pouring wine on the altar as an offering to God. Additional background: drinking of wine was considered a Sabbath activity. In Leviticus and Numbers, God would not accept a drink offering until His people were settled peacefully in the promised land.

St. Paul is ready to complete his self-offering, and to enter eternal Sabbath rest. Poured out as an offering to God – a rich concept to take to prayer!

Who Do YOU Say That I Am?

Evangelization, new evangelization – these have big themes in the church these days. Today’s Gospel is an excellent passage to keep the focus clear. The faith which is a rock, a foundation, upon which the church is built, and against which the gates of the nether world shall not prevail – it isn’t all the footnotes in the Catechism, or fine points in liturgical documents; it is not the code of canon law, or even the documents of Vatican II. The foundation, the rock is knowing and believing Jesus is the Christ, Son of the living God. It is believing that he came to save us from our sins, and that his ministry, his passion, death and resurrection are a rock, a foundation for our lives. To be an evangelizing disciple, we don’t need to master what Thomas Aquinas taught about the Trinity, nor be able to define prevenient grace. We need know the right answer to the question Jesus poses in this Gospel: Who do you say I am? When we respond, with Peter, ‘You are the Christ, the Son of the living God’, or with Thomas “My Lord and My God’, we are ready!

10 Reasons To Go To Mass ~~ Part 2 of 3

This week we continue our discussion on why it is important to slow down a bit in the summer, but attendance at Sunday Mass should not be one of the activities we cut out to slow down.

4) Why go to Mass? Because it is worth the cost – growing maturity means growing a willingness to “accept what I don’t like for the sake of what I love.” Applied to going to Mass, this principle means I can put up with crying babies, uninteresting sermons, money talk and factions. That’s life. Similar aggravations occur in my own family. Families have squabbles, silent treatment, spilt milk, selfishness, fights over silly things like TV – that’s the human condition. Yet most of us go home every night because that’s where we belong. I go to Mass because I belong there. I am a member of the body of Christ. Even if I am only a finger or an eye, the body needs what I can contribute – prayer, prescience, loyalty, perseverance, humor, encouragement, kindness, myself.

5) Why go to Mass? Because I want to be a contributing member – I don’t mean money. To state the obvious, I have to put something in if I expect to get something out. This counts for computers, marriage and even golf! I know it is irritating to have someone say, “but did you put anything in?” when I complain about not getting anything “out of” Mass. Even if it is the worst of Masses, I can listen to God speak to me in the readings, Eucharistic prayers, music. I can say: “this is what God wants me to do. God wants to heal me, draw me close with my brothers and sisters. Jesus offers me his friendship, his life-giving death and death-destroying resurrection, his life.”

6) Why go to Mass? Because I have a body – I am human, and I have been taught and have verified in experience that nothing is fully human until it is expressed through my body. If someone says they love you, but never says a word to me, never looks at me or touches me the smallest child could tell me that this lover of mine doesn’t love me. The need for body expression is why we have words, symbols, sacraments – outward signs. We couldn’t live without them. So the Mass (and many other religious actions) is part of the human side of our faith. Jesus himself is God’s adaptation to our human condition. We needed someone we could see, hear and touch.

The Rock

In today's Gospel, Jesus refers to Peter as “Rock” and says that the Church will be built upon him. We refer to someone as a “rock” when they are very reliable. Who has been a “rock” in your family?

The Gospel reminds us that the Church is built on the foundation of faith in Jesus Christ. It is faith that makes Peter the Rock upon which the Church is built. The family, as the domestic church, has this same faith as its foundation.

Rocks are so heavy and strong that they are sometimes used as building materials. Have you ever seen a rock wall or perhaps rocks used in a house? Why might rocks be good building materials?

Think about people whose faith has helped you to be a member of the Church and what you have learned from leaders in our Church today. What do you know about Peter and his importance to the early Christian community?

We recognize people on different levels. Some people we know by name only; some people we recognize from a particular setting. Those whom we know more familiarly, we recognize by mannerisms, habits, and personal qualities.

Because Peter recognized that Jesus was God's only Son, Jesus gave him a very important job. Jesus told Peter that he would be an important leader and would help to build the Church. Peter was given this job because he believed that Jesus was God's Son. One of the most important jobs of Church leaders today is to help us to remember the importance of our faith in Jesus, God's Son.

Who are some leaders in our community? In our city and state? In our country? In the world? We rely on leaders to guide us and to challenge us. Who are the leaders of our Church today? Why is it important for our Church to have good leaders? In this Sunday's Gospel Jesus singles out Peter as the person strong and willingly enough to help build his Church.
