Overcome with Paschal Joy

Yes, the news has been filled with far too many tragedies these past few weeks. Whether on the international scene, or in private, personal sorrows, reasons to lament abound. Yet Easter joy will not be denied! From the historic celebration of two canonizations in Rome this past weekend, to moments of delight right here at St. Louis, cause for Easter joy abounds as well. The tremendously uplifting experience of our Easter celebrations set the stage, with a joy that has been continuing since. Heading into Divine Mercy weekend, the pace of joy has not abated.

Saturday morning, what a joy to see close to 40 people learning about the Bible, sharing faith, enjoying community through the Great Adventure Bible series – one doesn’t have to travel to Emmaus to experience your heart burning as the scriptures are opened up! Watch for more opportunities to experience the Bible coming alive for you in the days to come. See for yourself!

At the same time, others were reflecting on how hearts can be healed after losing someone we love. This gathering was to discern how we as a parish do our best, walking with those in grief. The disciples grief after the crucifixion, turning into joy upon the discovery that Jesus had broken the bonds of death and opened the way to eternal life - a perfect backdrop for that Saturday morning gathering. Easter faith in action: a real inspiration to me. Don’t forget we will be having a bereavement Mass on Sat. May 24.

Next I was off to Hilton, for a team meeting of the men who will be staffing the next men’s Cursillo weekend in July. Real community, a sense of mission, and sharing life-giving faith – that describes the team as we prepare for the weekend, and it is also Cursillo in the nutshell. If you are interested in learning more, let one of the priests know. We have plenty of application forms!

Back to Pittsford, a beautiful celebration of the Eucharist, followed by our parish Gala. The deep fondness and gratitude for Msgr. Gerry, Fr. Ray and Fr. Al filled the evening. Bishop Clark’s moving reflection on his experience of these holy priests, Fr. Jim’s humor: what an evening! Everyone had a great time, and I think our three terrific retirees were very moved by the outpouring of affection. We truly have been blessed!

On Sunday morning, I experienced what readiness for First Communion looks like. One of our candidates for First Communion came up in the communion line with hands crossed, for a blessing. Then he took hold of my arm and said with great anticipation “Next weekend, I’ll be able to receive.” Precious! Later in the day we celebrated a blessing for our Confirmation candidates, to send them forth to the Cathedral for Confirmation. Just seeing the sanctuary filled with candidates, and the pride of parents and sponsors was a holy thing. Yes, many reasons for Paschal joy!

Easter blessings to you always, Fr. Bob

Then and Now
Acts of the Apostles is the 2nd volume of a two volume work, the Gospel of Luke, and the Acts of the Apostles. While the setting for Peter’s speech is the first Pentecost, this was written several decades after the event. As was traditional for many authors, the way to bring history alive was to compose speeches which would capture the person represented as speaking, and the meaning of the events. So our passage today communicates the spirit and memories of the first Pentecost, and Peter’s preaching, filtered through the preaching and unfolding of the faith in the intervening years. If the logic of some of the arguments here from the Old Testament are hard to follow, it is because we aren’t so familiar with Midrash. This approach, used in the synagogue at the time, was also used by Jews who had accepted Jesus as Messiah, in their efforts to win over fellow Jews. Meanwhile, the last line in our passage today is directed to everyone, Jew, Gentile, and you and me. You want proof that God raised Jesus, and that Jesus has poured forth the Holy Spirit on his apostles – just look. Here I am, an uneducated fisherman. During Jesus’ earthly ministry, I missed the point more often than I got it. Yet look now: I am confidently addressing hundreds of people. I can work through scriptural argument as well as any rabbi. Clearly this is God’s work!

Blood of the Covenant
In many cultures, blood is a powerful symbol of life. Blood shed reflects sacrifice. Blood played an important part in the whole sacrificial system of the Old Testament, and worship at the Temple. So we hear in our second reading today: if the blood of a spotless, unblemished lamb offered in the Temple was considered holy and a means of gaining forgiveness by your ancestors, think how much more precious is the blood of Christ, offered for the forgiveness and salvation of all. Excellent material to consider as we come forward to receive the precious blood!

Now and Then part II
As with the Acts of the Apostles, so with the Gospel. Luke has heard the stories about Jesus’ resurrection appearances. He knows that from the time of the resurrection on, believers experienced Christ alive and present to that through the scriptures, and in the breaking of the bread. So we have a powerful story told that captures much more than just ‘One day on the way to Emmaus.’ Christ interpreted and opened up the scriptures for these two early disciples, did so for those in Luke’s community, and continues to do so for us today. Their hearts were burning, and ours can too. Similarly, Cleopas and his companion had their eyes opened to realize it was Jesus who was at table with them, who said the blessing, broke the bread, and gave it to them. Luke’s community had the same experience. Jesus is still with us at Mass, joining us around the altar, taking the bread, saying the blessing, breaking the bread and sharing, not just bread with us, but his very life, body & blood.

Looking Ahead:
FOURTH SUNDAY OF EASTER

1st Reading: Acts 6:1-7
Proclaiming the word, serving the table

2nd Reading: 1 Peter 2:4-9

ST. MARTIN’S PLACE

St. Martin’s Place is a ministry of the Sisters of St. Joseph of Rochester. Every day the Sisters strive to teach, heal and effect positive change in communities, like ours, where they serve. They consistently try to improve the quality of life for the most needy adults, families and children, among us, whether through education, advocacy, social work, pastoral care or with a warm meal or friendly smile. It is in this spirit that St. Martin’s Place serves as a beacon in the city of Rochester creating a haven for many poor and homeless men, women and children. Some might call it a “soup kitchen” but it is truly so much more. Here, people receive, along with their meals, hope, encouragement, and even training that could lead to employment. Volunteers are always needed to prepare and serve food, set up for the guests and clean when the meals are completed. When Do You Recognize Jesus?

When we read today's Gospel, we may be surprised to learn that these friends of Jesus could walk and converse with him at some length yet not recognize him. We discover that the risen Jesus is not always easily recognized. Cleopas and the other disciple walk with a person whom they believe to be a stranger; only later do they discover that the stranger is Jesus. We learn that the first community met and recognized Jesus in the breaking of the bread, just as we meet Jesus in the Eucharist.

We can imagine the feelings of the two disciples in today's reading. They are leaving their community in Jerusalem. Their friend Jesus has been crucified. Their hope is gone. They are trying to make sense of what has occurred, so that they can put the experience behind them.

Jesus himself approaches the two men, but they take him for a stranger. Jesus asks them what they are discussing. He invites them to share their experience and interpretation of the events surrounding his crucifixion and death. When the two disciples have done so, Jesus offers his own interpretation of his crucifixion and resurrection.

The disciples invite the stranger (Jesus) to stay with them. During the meal in which they share in the breaking of the bread, the disciples’ eyes are opened; they recognize the stranger as Jesus. In the Eucharist too we share in the breaking of the bread and discover Jesus in our midst. Just as the disciples returned to Jerusalem to recount their experience to the other disciples, we too are sent from our Eucharistic gathering. Our experience of Jesus in the Eucharist compels us to share the story with others.

Families, as the domestic church, have the opportunity to make the family meal a time of prayerful encounter with one another and with Jesus. At a family meal we share our experiences of the day and connect them with the experiences of others in the family. We can also enjoy the meal as an opportunity to reflect upon our family life in light of Scripture. At their best our family meals can connect us to Jesus too.
